

NT Daily takes home awards in 17 categories at state journalism competition
Alex Helm | April 2, 2016

This weekend, seven members of the North Texas Daily competed in the 2016 Texas Intercollegiate Press Association competition held in Dallas. Two- and four-year schools from all over the state came with submissions and to compete in on-site competitions.

When all was said and done, North Texas Daily took home 17 awards altogether.

Notable standouts included 1st Place in the “Best Blog” category for The Dose, the paper’s pop culture section and 2nd Place in Overall Excellence.

Here’s a full list of the awards won:

1st Place – Best Blog – The Dose

1st Place – On-Site Newspaper Design – Nicholas Friedman

2nd Place – Overall Excellence – North Texas Daily

2nd Place – Editorial – Harrison Long

2nd Place – Sports Page Design – Hannah Lauritzen

3rd Place – Online Use of Mapping – Alex Helm, Eline De Bruijn and Sarah Lagro

3rd Place – Feature Story – Matt Payne

3rd Place – News Feature – Matt Payne

3rd Place – Special Section Design – Hannah Lauritzen

3rd Place – On-Site Critical Review – Harrison Long

3rd Place – On-Site Sports Writing – Scott Sidway

3rd Place – Online Interactive Graphic – Alex Helm, Eline De Bruijn and Sarah Lagro

Honorable Mention – Sports Feature – Reece Waddell

Honorable Mention – On-Site Copy Editing – Linda Kessler

Honorable Mention – On-Site Editorial Writing – Harrison Long

Honorable Mention – On-Site Radio Announcing – Scott Sidway

Honorable Mention – On-Site Headline Writing – Nicholas Friedman